User Safety Responsibility Statement

At Boshart Industries, we prioritize user safety and are committed to providing high-quality products designed for reliable and secure operation.

Failure to follow proper installation procedures or using products outside their intended applications may result in improper operation, product damage, or personal injury. Installation must always be performed by a qualified professional in accordance with applicable codes, standards, and safety regulations.

The system designer, installer, end user, and/or Authority Having Jurisdiction (AHJ) are responsible for ensuring that all products are selected, installed, and used in compliance with all relevant national and local code requirements. Where the end user is also the installer, that individual assumes full responsibility for both installation and operation.

Users are responsible for following best practices in installation, operation, and maintenance. Products must only be used for their intended purpose. Boshart Industries is not liable for damages or injuries resulting from misuse, misapplication, or installation outside of intended use. Any decision to deviate from intended use is the sole responsibility of the system designer, installer, end user, and/or AHJ, who assumes all associated risks and liabilities.

It is the responsibility of the system designer, installer and/or end user to confirm that the selected product is suitable for the intended application and complies with all applicable codes and standards, including any environmental or installation condition requirements.

Boshart Industries is dedicated to supporting safe installation and operation through transparent product information and reliable technical documentation.
